

HARVARD TRAVELLERS CLUB

Founded November 15, 1902

Addendum to the 1995 Year Book and List of Members as of the Fall of 2000.

This ADDENDUM
includes an unusually large number of new members
stretching back in some cases to 1994.
In a few instances phone numbers
may be out-of-date. Addresses, however, should be correct.

---

The Centennial of the Club arrives in 2002, in celebration of which the Council plans to issue a new and complete
YEAR BOOK.

All members will be asked to complete a questionnaire which will be sent out with the February 2002 Meeting Notice.

The editors of this ADDENDUM are Kenneth Bures and Robert Stephenson.

ACKERMAN, ROBERT H. (1998), 1010 Memorial Drive, Cambridge 02138. Home Tel: 617-547-1620. Work Tel: 617-726-8382. E-mail: RHA@MASSMED.ORG. Occupation: Physician. Travel interest: Cultural; Political; Historical.

My travels often have been facilitated by journalistic endeavors (1958–60), medical activities and lectureships (1970–present) and, recently, by participation in foreign masters' sculling events. This has allowed me to interface directly with other cultures and to use my journalistic curiosity to explore their political, social and historical contexts. Especially as a lecturer to foreign medical societies my hosts would help accommodate my interests by arranging special interviews and excursions. Sometimes this would result in a memoir.

Highlights of some travels: Two months in the British Isles as a reporter (Manchester Guardian) in 1955, and one year as a medical researcher during 1970–71. Thirty days in Russia in 1958 as a free-lance reporter on leave from the Providence Journal. I explored Leningrad, Moscow, Odessa, Yalta, Sochi, Stalingrad. I visited most all countries of Western Europe, Hungary and the Czech Republic in Eastern Europe, and most recently Prague, Dresden, and Berlin, 1955–97. Five trips to Japan, extensively exploring islands of Hokkaido and Kyushu, as well as Honshu, 1973–93. Central and South America and Caribbean, 1980–95, including Colombia twice (Baranquilla, Bogota, Bucaramanga), Mexico three times, Belize/Tikal, Guatemala (in search of the quetzal bird), Honduras (in search of tarpin), and Puerto Rico.

BURGESS, ALICE (2000), 19 Wall Street, Wellesley 02481. Home Tel: 781-239-3444. E-mail: aliceburgess@cs.com. Occupation: Needlework designer. Travel interest: Asia. My fascination with China especially is without end; I’ve been there five times and think that no number of trips will be enough.

First traveled to Europe in 1958. Lived in Lincoln, England, 1963–65; Johannesburg, South Africa, 1965–67; Friedrichsdorf, Germany, 1967–70. Traveled throughout South Africa and Europe during those years. Yugoslavia, Swaziland, 1966; Egypt and Ireland, 1967; Eastern Greece, North Africa, 1969. When I was six-months pregnant in 1969, I realized I’d become a hopelessly intrepid traveler when I emerged (twice) from the trunk of a car. Having forgotten my passport and fearing I’d be sent back home to Germany to get it, I passed through German-Austrian and Austrian-Italian borders in the trunk of a Mercedes-Benz.

Between 1970 and 1983: Because my late husband's business was international, I accompanied him many times to Europe and twice to Japan. Kenya, 1970 and 1992; Russia, 1976 and 1994.

1983 to the present: Europe (including the former Eastern bloc in 1996), Multiple trips to China starting in 1983, one of which included a week in a forbidden town in Inner Mongolia (1986). We were taken into police custody primarily, I think, because we were the first Westerners they'd ever seen. Taiwan and the Philippines including rice terraces in northern Luzon and on Boracay Island, 1987; South Africa, 1992 (returning there in January 2000); India, 1993; Tibet, 1997; Nepal, Bhutan, Darjeeling, Singapore, 1998; Peru, Ecuador, Galapagos, 1999; Hong Kong several times and Mexico, Bermuda, the Caribbean at various times.

DARLING, DIANE (1997), 199 Massachusetts Avenue, No. 1104, Boston 02115. Home Tel: 617-353-1199. Work Tel: 617-926-8200 Ext 128. E-mail: diane@darling.net. Occupation: Director of Corporate Partnerships. Travel interest: Educational travel; Adventure travel.

Lived in the Philippines, 1965–66; Thailand for high school, 1976; England, Germany, France, Scotland, Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Morocco, Tunisia, Kenya, Australia, New Zealand, Tahiti, Hong Kong, Singapore, Japan, China, India, and Russia, 1984–87; Argentina, Chile, Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, and Galapagos, Ireland, 1985; Trip down the Danube visiting Austria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, and Hungary, 1985–86; Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg, 1986; Mexico, 1987; Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Finland, 1987; Costa Rica, 1992; Hiking Canadian Rockies, 1993; Nepal, 1994; Israel and Jordan, Antarctica, 1995; Hiking in Crete, 1997.

DELEIRIS, LUCIA (1998), 144 Moody Street, No. 18, Waltham 02453. Home & Work Tel: 781-736-9466. E-mail: lucdel@earthlink.net. Web: www.luciadeleiris.com. Occupation: Artist. Travel interest: Landscape and wildlife painting with a special interest in Antarctic regions.

Three trips to Antarctica under the auspices of the National Science Foundation's Artist and Writers Program, ten months over the course of three trips to do landscape painting and illustrations for books: Antarctic Peninsula 1985–86;

Nothing dramatic or unique here, but a lifetime of incredibly enjoyable travel and living experiences outside of my (our, because my wife, Felicia, has been with me almost all the way) home territory in the U.S.

Europe has been the main focus, starting in 1947 in Britain and France. We lived in Germany while I was in the Army (1955–56), and in Spain when I worked in Madrid (1969–72). From those two locations plus family related stays in Italy and Britain in 1954, we have experienced a good bit of the world between Sicily and Scotland, Spain and Scandinavia. We now live half time in the home we bought in 1972 in the Province of Granada, in southern Spain.

Born in China, I have revisited three times in the past decade and also explored Tibet and a very little of Nepal. From one of these trips, we went by train from Beijing to Saint Petersburg, with stops along the way. I was able to turn a short lecturing assignment into a two-week trip to Singapore and Indonesia in the late 1980s.

Three weeks in Chile, including seeing the Torres de Paine and the Estrecho de Magellane (Anglos seem to have replaced the original name with “Strait of Magellan”), was yet another high point; and we have also enjoyed one short week in Mexico. We keep our bags packed.

Always interested in birds, their evolution, geographical diversity, populations and recently in on-going conservation efforts. Published “The Birds of Cape Cod” (1965) and a number of field reports as well as technical and statistical papers. Have travelled mostly in pursuit of these interests. Only once to Antarctica where we were shipwrecked, plucked out of our lifeboats and returned to Punta Arenas by the Chilean Navy. Many visits to all the other continents, the usual cultural and holiday areas, but with special interest in more remote places such as three visits each to Tierra del Fuego, New Guinea and Indonesia, twice trekking in Bhutan in the Himalayas, across Siberia and Russia on the Trans-Siberian railroad, in Burundi, Rwanda and Zaire only a few days before their revolutions broke out, many of the South Pacific and most of the South Atlantic Islands, Vietnam, Cameroon, New Caledonia, Madagascar, Spitsbergen, Macquarie Island south of Australia, the Mato Grosso of Brazil, much of the high Andes, the Cape of Good Hope, Cape Horn, through the Northwest Passage and others.

In 1982 I went on my first trip abroad, to the People's Republic of China. We were not on an official tour but managed to travel from Beijing to Shanghai, by plane, train and boat (down the Yangtze River). My next [interesting] trip was in 1986, to Ecuador—a friend and I decided we would have a better view of Halley's Comet from the south. We spent time in Quito, traveled around, and then went to the Galapagos islands. It was cloudy every night. In 1989 I took a leave of absence from work and joined the Peace Corps. I was stationed in Natitingou, Benin, West Africa for two years. While I was there I was able to take two trips, one to Niger, up into the desert, and one up the Niger river into Mali. It was the end of the season and we got stuck a few times, once not far from Timbuctou, and I still regret not getting off the boat and going there. But I saw the sights in Mopti and Djenne, and came back overland via Burkina Faso. After the Peace Corps I went to Gabon, then joined up with a Peace Corps friend and traveled east, first to Kenya for a safari and a side trip by train to Uganda, and then to Thailand, Vietnam and Laos. We stopped in Hong Kong for a few days and then returned home near the end of 1991. I've been to England a couple of times since then, once birdwatching up in the Orkney Islands. And now I'm ready to do some real traveling again.
