Dear Keene Sentinel,

I wrote the Sentinel after the Ice Storm of 2008 marveling at the abilities of the paper's home deliverer to get the paper to me without interruption and pretty much on time.

And here we are again: Two days of snow and two perfect scores on the part of the Rousseaus. Each day my copy was there in its box when I waded through the drifts at 3:30 and may have been there for some time. It couldn't have been easy.

I hope other subscribers have similarly good experiences.
